

The documents are in PDF format. Each document presents topics central to general and special education as well as areas important in developmental, educational and clinical psychology. The Parenting document, while specifically prepared for parents, should also be helpful for teachers and psychologists. The general format of most documents is outlined on my Website. www.docsykes.com

Advice Disclaimer

The information contained in the PDF's is provided by Dr Stewart Sykes in good faith. Every effort has been made to ensure that all information is accurate and current. However, Dr Stewart Sykes does not guarantee or warrant the accuracy, completeness or currency of the information provided.

Neither Dr Stewart Sykes, affiliates, directors, officers, employees, agents, contractors, successors or assigns will be liable for any damages whatsoever arising out of, or in any way related to, the use of this advice. This limitation applies to direct, indirect, consequential, special, punitive or other damages you or others may suffer, as well as damages for loss of profits, business interruption or the loss of data or information.

All files have been checked for viruses. Dr Stewart Sykes cannot guarantee that these files are 100% free of any malware/spyware or viruses. The end user assumes the entire risk as to whether the file may contain any malware/spyware or viruses. The files should be rescanned by the most recent virus detection program available to the end user. Dr Stewart Sykes will not be liable for any damages whatsoever arising out of malware/spyware or viruses in any/all files.

Changes are made as required to update or correct the content. Advice received from Dr Stewart Sykes should not be relied on for personal, medical, legal or financial decisions, and you should consult an appropriate professional person for advice tailored to your situation.